

Sectio chirurgica Summer Series 2016

On April 28th a new series of Sectio chirurgica will start. Once again, exceptional surgeons will perform characteristic surgeries on human specimen, which will be broadcasted live. There will be four hand-picked live surgeries, special attention was payed to diverse procedures.

The topics cover a wide range of surgical areas and the involved clinics are the University Departments of General, Visceral and Transplant Surgery, Thoracic and Cardiovascular Surgery, and of Anaesthesiology and Intensive Care Medicine, all based in Tuebingen, plus Neurosurgery from the Cleveland Clinic Abu Dhabi. One of the highlights will be the implantation of an artificial heart.

On top of Tuebingen's renowned surgeons the Cleveland Clinic Abu Dhabi will be part of this series. To allow for easy access for the very international audience every episode will be available in German and English.

A technical highlight will be the new green-screen-studio and of course there will also be the live-chat, the possibility to test one's knowledge in the live-vote and the Second Stream Screen with additional information.

This term Sectio chirurgica is also introducing the Sectio chirurgica 'ambassadors'. Sectio chirurgica is looking for participants willing to organise a live viewing of the series in their institution, a lecture hall, their company. In return Sectio chirurgica will provide those ambassadors with materials, e.g. posters. Further information and an application form can be found on www.sectio-chirurgica.de/botschafter.

Sectio chirurgica is targeted at medical students, students of courses related to medicine, as well as medical professionals. Registration and participation are free. Interested parties can register on www.sectio-chirurgica.de.